About the Book

Paradise tells the story of a small, isolated community on the West Coast of the United States. The narrative unfolds in two distinct timelines: the present day, where a young woman named Rachel discovers her mother's past, and the 1950s, when the founding of the community began. Morrison's prose is lyrical and precise, weaving themes of identity, memory, and the complexity of human relationships.

Key Themes

- Community vs. Individualism – The tension between collective ideals and personal desires drives the plot.
- Memory and History – Past events shape the present, and the novel questions how history is recorded.
- Race and Identity – Morrison examines how race influences social dynamics within a seemingly idyllic setting.
- Truth and Lies – The narrative challenges the notion of objective truth, showing how stories are constructed.
